C. CHARACTERISTIC OF THE ELEMENT

C.1. Identification of the communities, groups or, if applicable, individuals concerned

According to the 2003 Convention, intangible heritage can only be identified with reference to communities, groups or individuals that recognize it as part of their cultural heritage. Thus it is important to identify clearly one or several communities, groups or, if applicable, individuals concerned with the nominated element. The information provided should allow the Committee to identify the communities, groups or individuals concerned with an element, and should be mutually coherent with the information in sections 1 to 5 below.

The Indonesian Angklung community consists of: angklung craftspersons, angklung trainers, angklung musicians, school and university administrators, teachers and students, and government officials whose service is related to angklung.

The angklung community is spread especially in West Java and Banten Provinces, and also in the provinces of Central Java, DI Yogyakarta, East Java, Bali, Eastern Lesser Sunda Islands (NTT), Western Lesser Sunda Islands (NTB), DKI Jakarta, Nangroe Aceh Darussalam, North Sumatra, South Sumatra, Riau and Riau Islands Provinces (14 Provinces). Research was conducted among the angklung communities in the districts of Bandung, Bogor, Sukabumi and Sumedang in West Java Province, Rangkas Bitung in Banten province and DKI Jakarta (see appended map). Information regarding angklung in other areas was obtained from cultural experts and from books and papers.

C.2. Geographic location and range of the element and location of the communities, groups or, if applicable, individuals concerned

This section should identify the range of distribution of the element, indicating if possible the geographic locations in which it is centred. If related elements are practiced in neighbouring areas, please so indicate.

+ This data was confirmed by children from 33 Provinces involved in angklung training of the Gita Bahana Nusantara Orchestra in 1-17/08/09 in Jakarta. Angklung culture has been known for a long time until now in Banten and West Java Provinces. Lately Saung Aungklung Udjo has been sending angklung to many provinces in Indonesia, and to 49 countries in the world. See the maps of Indonesia and Banten/West Java appended.

C.3. Domain(s) represented by the element

Identify concisely the domain(s) of intangible cultural heritage manifested by the element, which might include one or more of the domains identified in Article 2.2 of the Convention. (This information will be used primarily for visibility, if the element is inscribed.)

(a) Oral Tradition and Expression -- performed and transmitted by oral/informal system using hand signals

(b) Performing Arts -- frequently performed for entertainment at public functions

(c) Customs, rituals and celebrations – performed as part of traditional rituals and celebrations eg. rice planting and harvest, circumcision.

(d) Knowledge and practices based upon nature and the universe – much symbolism attached to forms of angklung; Bamboo harvesting methods are sustainable and environment friendly. Played to invoke natural forces for successful harvests

(e) Skill in traditional handcrafts -- making and tuning angklung is a traditional handcraft requiring considerable skill which takes years to master.

D. BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE ELEMENT

The brief description of the element will be particularly helpful in allowing the Committee to know at a glance what element is being proposed for inscription, and, in the event of inscription, will be used for purposes of visibility. It should be a summary of the description provided in point 1 below but is not an introduction to that longer description.

Angklung is an original, simple bamboo musical instrument of Indonesia known at least since the 18th Century. Angklung consists of 2-4 tubes of special black bamboo suspended in a white bamboo frame bound with rattan cords. The tubes are carefully whittled and cut by a master craftsman to sound certain notes when the bamboo frame is shaken or tapped. Each angklung produces a single note or chord. Thus many players each holding a single instrument must collaborate together to play melodies. This develops teamwork, mutual respect (learning to live together), discipline, and artistic sense, even among players from different communities or nationalities. Traditional angklungs use pentatonic scale, while modern/Padaeng angklungs use diatonic scale. Angklung is closely related with traditional customs, arts and cultural identity in West Java and Banten Provinces and elsewhere. Many philosophical values are associated with the form of the instruments. Traditional angklungs are played during ceremonies, eg. rice planting time with the hope of a bountiful harvest, harvest time, circumcision, etc. Traditional angklung culture is transmitted from parents to children, or through non-formal education. Now modern Angklung Padaeng is taught in educational institutions from kindergarten to university level, and is proven to have a positive effect.
1. IDENTIFICATION AND DEFINITION OF THE ELEMENT (CF. CRITERION R.1)

This is the key section of the nomination to satisfy criterion R.1: “The element constitutes intangible cultural heritage as defined in Article 2 of the Convention”. A clear and complete explanation is essential to demonstrate that the nominated element meets the Convention’s definition of intangible heritage. This section should address all the significant features of the element as it exists at present, and should include:

a. an explanation of its social and cultural functions and meanings today, within and for its community,
b. the characteristics of the bearers and practitioners of the element,
c. any specific roles or categories of persons with special responsibilities towards the element,
d. the current modes of transmission of the knowledge and skills related to the element.

The Committee should receive sufficient information to determine:

a. that the element is among the “practices, representations, expressions, knowledge, skills — as well as the instruments, objects, artefacts and cultural spaces associated therewith —”;
b. “that communities, groups and, in some cases, individuals recognize [it] as part of their cultural heritage”;
c. that it is being “transmitted from generation to generation, [and] is constantly recreated by communities and groups in response to their environment, their interaction with nature and their history”;
d. that it provides communities and groups involved with “a sense of identity and continuity”;
and
e. that it is not incompatible with “existing international human rights instruments as well as with the requirements of mutual respect among communities, groups and individuals, and of sustainable development”.

Overly technical descriptions should be avoided and submitting States should keep in mind that this section must explain the element to readers who have no prior knowledge or direct experience of it. Nomination files need not address in detail the history of the element, or its origin or antiquity.

Angklung is a simple, original bamboo musical instrument of Indonesia documented since at least 1704 (Quote Van Riebeeck, Priangan). The word Angklung comes from the Sudanese angkleung-angkleungan. Angka means pitch/tone, and lung means broken. 2-4 bamboo resonating tubes carved and tuned carefully are suspended in a rectangular partitioned frame made of white bamboo tightly bound with rattan cords. Lugs on the bottom of the tubes move in rectangular shaped slots in the bamboo base tube of the frame. The resonator tubes sound when the frame is shaken or tapped. The 2 or 3 resonating tubes are tuned to the same note in different octaves. There are also 3 and 4 tube angklungs with tubes tuned to the notes of a chord. Making and tuning the resonator tubes is a great skill taking years to master. Udjo Ngalagena, founder of Saung Angklung Udjo, referred to the sound of angklung as ‘the music of nature.

Social and cultural functions of angklung identified in C (iii) (a)-(e) above. Characteristics of bearers and practitioners identified in C (i) above.

The form of the angklung itself contains symbolism and philosophical values. The large and small tubes symbolize that the great, strong and rich must always protect and shelter the small, weak and poor. (Obby A.R. Wiramihardja, Interview, Jakarta, 01/08/09). Each angklung has at least 2 resonating tubes, symbolizing that human beings should never isolate themselves or be egoistic, but rather always live within a society. The tubes are arrayed from small to large. This symbolizes that every day, human beings must strive to be better than yesterday, and that some people are created small and some big, but there is nothing to be regretted, as it is all due to fate. The angklung will sound nicely if the large and small tubes move at the same time, within their limits. This symbolizes that if everyone is aware of his or her rights and responsibilities, life will be harmonious. The tubes will sound if the lugs at their bottom ends touch the base tube of the frame. Similarly, one may become great, speak and be of good character if one does not forget one’s identity and culture, while if one forgets then one cannot become anything. The three tubes of an angklung symbolize tritangtu, (in Bali trihitakarana) -- to perform good action with mind, body and words. The angklung resonating tubes are arranged neatly in their respective places. Similarly, we should remain neatly in our proper places, and not overtake others. (Satria, loc. cit)

The special feature of Angklung is that each player usually holds and plays only one angklung producing a single note (or chord). Thus to play melodies, many players must collaborate. (Obby, loc. cit). All respondents confirmed that this develops cooperation, dialogue and friendship among players, including those from different nations. Angklung is so simple that even a kindergarten student or one with no experience can play it, as admitted by Syahla (6 yrs.) and Azkar (6 yrs.), students at Pelita Nustantara Kindergarten in Bandung (Interview 24/07/09).

In 1938, Daeng Soetigna (1908-1984) developed diatonic/chromatic angklungs which could play all kinds of music and were later known as Angklung Padaeng. This expanded the world of angklung. Daeng said that angklung has five qualities: cheap, easy, en masse, educational and attractive. Angklung was recognized as an educational tool by Decree of the Minster of Education and Culture No. 082/1968. Angklung has frequently been used for reception of State guests and diplomats at international conferences. Its woody, sweet and natural sound and its ability to play the songs of all nations have often created friendly conducive atmospheres (Obby, loc. cit.). Guests are themselves given angklungs and a quick lesson, and then play songs together. Some important meetings positively influenced by angklung music include: The Linggarjati Conference between the Republic of Indonesia and the Dutch Colonial Government in 1946; The First Asia-Africa Conference in 1955, and the 25th Anniversary of the AA Conference in 1980; Several Indonesian Embassies, eg. Geneva, and Paris, have angklung groups, and hold performances, inviting foreign diplomats to play angklung together (Interview, Bandung 07/07/09).

75 of 76 respondents said that angklung is a part of their cultural heritage and identity, as confirmed by literature and experts’ opinions (Table 1.0 above).

2. Traditional angklung culture is transmitted from one generation to another by children learning from their parents (Interview, Rangkasbitung, 25/07/09), or by students learning in sanggars or informal arts workshops (Interviews, Bogor, 02/08/09, Surade, 03/08/09). Daeng Soetigna, Udjo Ngalagena, Obby Wiramihardja, Hardiman, and other prominent angklung figures learned about angklung informally.

3. After Angklung Padaeng was developed, angklung culture is transmitted through extracurricular activities at all levels of schools and universities. Angklung education retains its oral pattern. All 76 respondents felt that children like to learn angklung. Among the respondents, 22 students (2 Kindergarten, 4 Elementary, 5 Junior High, 6 Senior High and 5 University students admitted they liked learning angklung. This was confirmed by 9 headmasters/headmistresses and 9 angklung music trainers.

66 of 76 respondents replied that angklung culture was related to cultural identity and safeguarding of culture in their areas. Angklung culture is clearly related to Sudanese cultural identity (West Java and Banten).

The culture of Angklung Indonesia does not contravene international human rights instruments. Daeng Soetigna aspired to create world peace through the spreading of angklung. Angklung uses natural materials. Bamboo should be harvested only during the 2 weeks in a year when cicadas sound. Bamboo is cut at least 3 segments above the ground, so the root will continue to propagate. This is conducive to conservation of the environment and sustainable development. Angklung creates employment for craftspersons and teachers.
2. CONTRIBUTION TO ENSURING VISIBILITY AND AWARENESS AND TO ENCOURAGING DIALOGUE (CF. CRITERION R.2)

The nomination should demonstrate (Criterion R.2) that “Inscription of the element will contribute to ensuring visibility and awareness of the significance of the intangible cultural heritage and to encouraging dialogue, thus reflecting cultural diversity worldwide and testifying to human creativity”.

Please explain how the element’s inscription on the Representative List will contribute to ensuring visibility of the intangible cultural heritage and will raise awareness at the local, national and international levels of its importance. This section need not address how inscription will bring greater visibility to the element, but how its inscription will contribute to the visibility of intangible cultural heritage more broadly. Explain how inscription will promote respect for cultural diversity and human creativity, and will promote mutual respect among communities, groups and individuals.

The results of 76 interviews conducted and field observation indicate that traditional angklung culture is being maintained, but is in need of safeguarding efforts. All respondents have indicated that Angklung Padaeng is developing in its area of origin, and is even spreading to other areas such as NAD, North Sumatra, South Sumatra, Riau, Riau Islands, etc. (See Table 1.0 above). According to the data of Saung Angklung Udjo, Angklung Padaeng, has become known in 49 countries. (Satria, Interview, Bandung, 11/08/09).

63 of 76 respondents were of the opinion that inscription on the UNESCO Representative List would increase public awareness of angklung intangible cultural heritage. Those who did not reply to this question were mostly young children who could not be expected to understand the question. Many respondents added that if Indonesian Angklung were to be inscribed on the UNESCO Representative List, they themselves would become more active in their efforts to safeguard and develop angklung cultural heritage.

Inscription of Indonesian Angklung would clearly increase awareness regarding the cultural values of Indonesian Angklung as well as the importance of its safeguarding at local, national and international levels, such as has been the case with other elements of intangible cultural heritage inscribed by UNESCO. For example, coverage of angklung in printed and electronic media would certainly increase. Angklung communities and organizations would be motivated to become more active in their safeguarding efforts through various programmes such as performances, training, exhibitions, seminars, discussions, workshops etc. as described 4 a, b, dan c, below. For example, Satria Yanuar Akbar (27 yrs.) stated that Saung Angklung Udjo would become more active in its efforts to safeguard traditional angklung such as Angklung Buncis (Interview, Bandung, 07/08/09). The inscription would surely increase public awareness regarding the UNESCO Convention as well as regarding safeguarding of intangible cultural heritage in general terms.

Angklung culture promotes cultural diversity and cultural industry, as well as human creativity. Traditional angklung is being maintained, while modern angklung (Angklung Padaeng) is actually developing, even as far as overseas.

All 76 respondents said that in their experience, angklung was a vehicle for cultural dialog and exchange of ideas, and promoted mutual respect among those who play angklung. Indeed, angklung cannot be played without cooperation and mutual respect among the players. Especially, those who are involved in angklung training are able to feel the benefits. According to Daeng Soetigna, and confirmed by Obby A.R. Wiramihardja (Interview, 01/08/09), by Vita Mutiara and by 9 School Headmasters or Headmistresses and 9 angklung trainers, playing angklung together can develop good qualities among the players, especially among children. Some of these good qualities mentioned are as follows: cooperation (learning to live together), discipline, responsibility, concentration, development of imagination, development of memory, mutual respect, self-motivation, equal rights, sensitivity and refinement as well as artistic and musical feelings (Obby, loc cit). In Batam Island, Riau Islands, angklung orchestra is used for ‘character building’. Angklung has also been used to treat victims of stroke, autistic children, those having brain disorders, and to give comfort to those suffering from terminal diseases.
(Seminar, Bandung, 11/08/09). This mutual respect and cooperation would be even further enhanced should Indonesian Angklung be inscribed by UNESCO.

Contribution of the Inscription of Indonesian Angklung to the Goals of the UNESCO List

(Articles 1 (a)-(d) of the Convention)

(a) safeguarding the intangible cultural heritage

The inscription would motivate all stakeholders (angklung community as well as academics, business and government parties) to become more active in safeguarding angklung intangible cultural heritage, because it would bring with it an obligation to carry on the safeguarding efforts mentioned in 4 (a), and to carry out the safeguarding measures described 4 (b), inspired by the commitments stated in 4 (c) below.

(b) to guarantee respect for the intangible cultural heritage and for the communities, groups and individuals concerned

The inscription would guarantee more respect for the communities, groups and craftspersons who still make and teach angklung. This is important, so that the younger generation may still be attracted to learn angklung culture.

(c) to increase awareness on the local, national and international levels regarding the importance of intangible cultural heritage, and to guarantee mutual respect regarding the same.

On a local level, 63 of 76 respondents interviewed were of the opinion that the inscription would clearly increase visibility and awareness among the public as well as the media regarding the intangible cultural heritage of angklung as well as regarding the UNESCO intangible cultural heritage programme in general, such as has happened after the proclamations of Indonesian Wayang and Indonesian Kris and the inscription of Indonesian Batik by UNESCO. Visibility and awareness among the international community would clearly be enhanced by the inscription. Mutual respect would also be increased as all components of the angklung community would feel an increased obligation to mutual respect, cooperation and safeguarding angklung culture. Mutual respect and a resolve to cooperate together have been expressed in a Declaration signed by representatives of elements of Indonesian Angklung communities present at the Session for Verification of the Indonesian Angklung Nomination File in Bandung 11th August 2009. See copy of Declaration and translation annexed.

(d) to arrange for international collaboration and assistance

Some respondents felt that traditional angklung was decreasing or was even threatened. In the meantime, the culture of modern angklung or Angklung Padaeng was considered to be expanding. It is felt that cooperation is needed, both on a national level as well as with international parties, to carry out safeguarding efforts for Indonesian angklung, especially in the case of traditional angklungs. Inscription of angklung culture on the Representative List of Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity by UNESCO would motivate all stakeholders in such cooperative efforts.

3. Safeguarding Measures (cf. Criterion R.3)

Items 3.a. to 3.c. request the elaboration of a coherent set of safeguarding measures as called for in Criterion R.3: “Safeguarding measures are elaborated that may protect and promote the element”. Such measures should reflect the broadest possible participation of the communities, groups or, if applicable, individuals concerned, both in their formulation and in their implementation.

3.a. Current and recent efforts to safeguard the element

Please describe the current and recent efforts of the concerned communities, groups or, if applicable, individuals to ensure the viability of the element. Describe efforts of the concerned State(s) Party(ies) to safeguard the element, taking note of external or internal constraints, such as limited resources.

An external constraint has been difficulty in obtaining raw materials (black bamboo) due to its being harvested for the furniture industry. Report by Yana Sudiana (50 yrs.), angklung craftsman in Kampung Cijambe Girang, Surade, (Interview, 03/08/09) and confirmed by Handiman (Interview, loc.cit). Research and encouragement for planting black bamboo is needed to overcome this problem. Saung Angklung Udjo, the West Java Forestry Service and other agencies have begun collaboration and the Forestry Service has included this programme in its 5 and 10 year plans (Interview, Bandung, 22/08/09). Bamboo is being sought in other areas, eg. Cirebon and Tasikmalaya (Seminar, 11/08/09). Training is needed to ensure bamboo is harvested in the way which conserves the bamboo.

An internal constraint has been shortage of qualified angklung teachers/trainers /craftspersons, reported by Sanusi (43 yrs.) of the Bogor Culture and Tourism Service (Interview 02/08/09). This can be overcome by training teacher/trainers and angklung craftspersons. Another constraint is... shortage of funds for ongoing activities for safeguarding angklung culture. Satria (27 yrs.) stated the desire of Saung Angklung Udjo to assist safeguarding efforts of traditional angklung (Interview 07/08/09). Guidance of angklung craftspersons is needed.

3.b. Safeguarding measures proposed

For the Representative List, the safeguarding measures are those that may help to solidify the element’s current viability and to ensure that its viability is not jeopardized in the future, especially as an unintended result of inscription and the resulting visibility and public attention. Identify and describe the various safeguarding measures that are elaborated that may, if implemented, protect and promote the element, and provide brief information concerning, for example, their priority, scope, approaches, timetables, responsible persons or bodies, and costs.

4. COMMUNITY PARTICIPATION AND CONSENT IN THE NOMINATION PROCESS (CF. CRITERION R.4)

This section asks the submitting State Party to establish that the nomination satisfies Criterion R.4: ‘The element has been nominated following the widest possible participation of the community, group or, if applicable, individuals concerned and with their free, prior and informed consent’.

4.a. Participation of communities, groups and individuals in the nomination process

Describe how and in what ways the community, group or, if applicable, individuals concerned have participated actively in the nomination process at all stages, as required by Criterion R.4. States Parties are further encouraged to prepare nominations with the participation of a wide variety of other concerned parties, including where appropriate local and regional governments, neighbouring communities, NGOs, research institutes, centres of expertise and other interested parties. The participation of communities in the practice and transmission of the element should be addressed in point 1 above, and their participation in safeguarding should be addressed in point 3; here the submitting State should describe the widest possible participation of communities in the nomination process.

The Indonesian Angklung Nomination Team has guaranteed community participation in the following ways:

a. Including angklung community members in the nomination team
b. Inviting angklung community members to nomination team meetings.
c. Field research was conducted among the angklung community in Bandung, Bogor, Sukabumi and Sumedang (West Java), Rangkas Bitung (Banten) and DKI Jakarta. The research took the form of administering a questionnaire of 22 questions to a total of 76 respondents.
d. Interviews for a survey of the existence of angklung culture were conducted among culture experts from 32 Provinces at Beautiful Indonesia in Miniature Theme Park, Jakarta (West Papua Province does not yet have a pavilion at the park) on 1st August 2009, and to 3 other culture experts from Nanggroe Aceh Darussalam, Riau Islands and West Papua. The experts were also asked whether they agreed that Indonesian Angklung be nominated to UNESCO, and all (33 out of 33 Provinces) stated that they agreed with the nomination.

e. Representatives of the angklung community from various places participated in a Verification Session of the Nomination File on 11th August 2009 at Saung Angklung Udjo, Bandung and have given their input for corrections and additions to the nomination file.

f. These representatives of the angklung community have been pleased to sign statements of their participation and free, informed prior agreement to the corrected nomination file, before its presentation to the Government for submission to UNESCO (See 5.b below).

g. Plans for safeguarding angklung culture already conducted (4.a) and which are planned (4.b) (Criteria R.3 of Operational Directives to Article 18 of the Convention) involve various elements of the angklung community in their execution.

h. Udjo Ngalagena had established Saung Angklung Udjo (SAU) in 1966 as a centre for development of angklung culture. Saung Angklung Udjo has developed to become the largest centre for angklung culture, and remains active even now. Obby A.R. Wiramihardja had established Masyarakat Musik Angklung (MMA or Angklung Music Society) of Indonesia in Jakarta in 2001, to coordinate communities, groups/organizations and individual enthusiasts of Indonesia. (Interview, Jakarta, 01/08/09). SAU and MMA were actively involved in preparing and supporting the nomination file, and will be involved in future safeguarding activities described in the file.

i. Representatives of the Indonesian Angklung Community present at the Nomination Verification Session on 11th August 2009 at Saung Angklung Udjo, Bandung, have signed a Declaration stating their resolve for mutual respect and cooperation together to safeguard and develop the intangible cultural heritage of Angklung Indonesia.

j. The team has interviewed schoolchildren from 33 Provinces of Indonesia, who played angklung as part of the Gita Bahana Nusantara Orchestra. This orchestra performed at the 63rd Independence Day Celebrations at the Presidential Palace on 17/08/09 in Jakarta. At this event, these children, dressed in the traditional costumes of their respective provinces, sang and played angklung before the President of the Republic of Indonesia and the assembled dignitaries. They all stated that playing angklung together had built enthusiasm for cooperation and friendship among them.

4.b. Free, prior and informed consent to the nomination

The free, prior and informed consent to the nomination of the element from the community, group or, if applicable, individuals concerned may be demonstrated through written or recorded concurrence, or through other means, according to the legal regimens of the State Party and the infinite variety of communities and groups concerned. The Committee will welcome a broad range of demonstrations or attestations of community consent in preference to standard or uniform declarations.

Please attach supporting evidence demonstrating such consent and indicate below what evidence you are providing and what form it takes.

See the attached statements of involvement and agreement, in Bahasa Indonesia and English. The documents state that various elements of the angklung community, including craftspersons, artists, teachers, students, academics and related officials, have been involved in the preparation of the nomination file, that they agree with the contents after due corrections have been made, and that they give their free, informed and prior consent to the submission of the nomination file to UNESCO. These statements were obtained after a Nomination Verification Seminar attended by angklung community representatives, academics and relevant officials at 4.c. Respect for customary practices governing access

Access to certain specific aspects of intangible cultural heritage is sometimes restricted by customary practices governing, for example, its transmission or performance or maintaining the secrecy of certain knowledge. Please indicate if such practices exist and, if they do, demonstrate that inscription of the element and implementation of the safeguarding measures would fully respect such customary practices governing access to specific aspects of such heritage (cf. Article 13 of the Convention). Describe any specific measures that might need to be taken to ensure such respect.

In conducting its research, the research team respected customary practices regarding access, especially with regard to traditional Angklung Buhun in Kanekes (Baduy) (Interview, 25/07/09) as well as in other places, regarding when angklung may be performed and who may take out and play the angklung instruments. Should Indonesian Angklung be inscribed on the Representative List, these customary practices would continue to be respected and followed. Access to the Kanekes (Baduy) area, particularly to the inner area, is in any case restricted for outsiders including to the media. This restriction serves to safeguard the culture of traditional Angklung Buhun.

It is the resolve of the angklung community that the several traditional forms of angklung mentioned in A (iii) above should continue to be performed in their traditional context i.e., in connection with customary celebrations such as rice planting, rice harvesting, circumcision, etc. There have been some efforts to give some of the traditional kinds of angklung new significance by introducing their study as extracurricular activities in schools having those traditional angklung as part of their local culture, to enhance transmission to younger generations, while maintaining the associated traditional values.

Access to Angklung Padaeng is on the other hand not restricted, and is open to all.

5. INCLUSION OF THE ELEMENT IN AN INVENTORY (CF. CRITERION R.5)

This section is where the State Party establishes that the nomination satisfies Criterion R.5: “The element is included in an inventory of the intangible cultural heritage present in the territory(ies) of the submitting State(s) Party(ies) as defined in Articles 11 and 12.”

Identify the inventory in which the element has been included and the office, agency, organization or body responsible for maintaining that inventory. Demonstrate that the inventory has been drawn up in conformity with Articles 11 and 12, in particular Article 11(b) that stipulates that intangible cultural heritage shall be identified and defined “with the participation of communities, groups and relevant non-governmental organizations” and Article 12 requiring that inventories be regularly updated.

The nominated element’s inclusion in an inventory should not in any way imply or require that the inventory(ies) should have been completed prior to nomination. Rather, a submitting State Party may be in the process of completing or updating one or more inventories, but has already duly included the nominated element on an inventory-in-progress.

Data regarding Angklung Indonesia is included inventory of elements of cultural heritage of the Ministry of Culture and Tourism of the Republic of Indonesia, specifically the inventory maintained by the Centre for Research and Development of Culture. See attached letter of the Minister of Culture and Tourism of the Republic of Indonesia. The Department of Culture and Tourism, in collaboration with UNESCO Jakarta Office, has recently prepared a Practical Guidebook to Inventory of Intangible Cultural Heritage, including a form for entry of data regarding elements of ICH, both manually as well as to a Web 2.0 based website which permits continuous updating and review of data by community members. This new form and system are fully compliant with Articles 11 and 12 of the ICH Convention, and are being implemented immediately. Existing inventory regarding angklung in websites will be linked to the new system by metadata links.
Some places and sites of inventories of Indonesian Angklung prepared with participation of communities, groups and relevant NGOs are as follows:

2. 1986 Dept. of Education and Culture published a book on Daeng Soetigna, including angklung culture. Publication data can be found on the website http://pustaka.budpar.go.id

3. 1966 Saung Angklung Udjo community began inventory of the cultural heritage of both traditional and modern angklung. Up till now, the information has been updated every 3 months. From January 2010, the data will be updated continuously. Website: www.angklung-udjo.co.id

4. Angklung Music Society (MMA) has been collecting data on Angklung since 2000. Documentation is mostly in the form of papers, some quoted below.

5. Angklung Web Institute (AWI) website has been inventorying angklung cultural heritage since its establishment in 2003. The data is updated monthly. http://angklung-web-institute.com

6. budaya-indonesia.org a Web 2.0 community based website also carries data on angklung. The data on this website is updated continuously.

Universitas Pendidikan Indonesia (Indonesian Education University) in Bandung has been carrying out inventory of Angklung cultural heritage since 1997 in collaboration with the Ford Foundation.
