

To the Honorable Chief,
Intangible Cultural Heritage Section, UNESCO
Excellency

The Qālishuyan spiritual rituals of Mashhad-e Ardehāl, Kāshān, manifest as a highly regarded Intangible Cultural Heritage of Iran. Enjoying an estimated history of around 1300 years, the rituals encompass a combination of spirituality and love of humanity. The practitioners gather in the cultural act to promote peace, culture, and spirituality.

Once recognized internationally, the Qālishuyān rituals of Mashhad-e Ardehāl will, no doubt, contribute to a better understanding of an Iranian interpretation of peace. The mentioned international inscription will, also, encourage rapprochement of cultures, through encouraging acquaintance with deeply rooted Iranian cultural heritages.

We, the undersigned, a representative community of the people of Fin of Kāshān, and Khāve of Ardehāl, hereby, gladly express our free, prior, and informed consent, as bearers and practitioners of the abovementioned Intangible Heritage element, with regard to the inscription of the "Qālishuyān rituals of Mashhad-e Ardehāl" on the Representative List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage List of UNESCO. We regard the mentioned inscription as a great achievement, and take pride in it.

Finally, we would like to extend, through signing the present letter of consent, our sincere thanks toward the Intangible Cultural Heritage Section of UNESCO, as well as all others who have and will consider the "Qālishuyān rituals of Mashhad-e Ardehāl" nomination, for their endeavors to promote Intangible Cultural Heritage worldwide.

The lower half of the document is densely packed with numerous handwritten signatures in blue ink. In the center of this section, there is a circular official stamp of UNESCO, featuring the organization's logo and text in Persian. The signatures are written in various styles, some with accompanying names or titles in Persian script.
