The Grenada National Trust hosted the project "A Sustainable Heritage Endorsement Programme-Output 4" funded by OAS as a new model to develop viable and responsible heritage tourism economies throughout the Caribbean (2015-2017). The project revealed some challenges as most of small-scale businesses and tradition bearers and practitioners expressed not feeling fully integrated into Grenada's heritage tourism sector as they are not well prepared and promoted, and find it hard to gain access to this market and its benefits. Local communities were able to identified some of the tangible and intangible heritage elements but most of the sites, monuments, natural landscapes and cultural expressions were not recognized by youths as some traditional dance, music, oral traditions/languages, craftspeople, folklorists, festivals, galleries/museums, singers, storytellers, community practices/skills, ethnobotanical knowledge (OAS Output 4: Gaps in knowledge Report, 2015).

As many intangible cultural heritage elements in Grenada are in danger of disappearing in the near future, the Grenada National Trust with the collaboration of Grace Lutheran School, and the support of the Ministry of Education and Ministry of Culture, have implemented the Proud of my Heritage's project for the transmission and safeguarding of the Intangible Cultural Heritage in Grenada through inventorying and education initiatives between 2021-2023 to:

- Build awareness among stakeholders as local authorities (Minister for Education, Youth, Sports and Culture, including Focal Point and Grenada Cultural Foundation; Tourism; Communications), community leaders, tradition bearers and practitioners, school principals and teachers, local media, and other stakeholders about the 2003 Convention and Grenada's ICH elements;

- Build the capacity of local communities, cultural bearers and practitioners, youths, local media - journalists & photographers - principals and teachers to actively participate in the pilot ICH inventorying exercises and promotion in Grenada, Carriacou and Petite Martinique;

- Recognize persons, communities and associations who are involved in activities related to ICH safeguarding and promotion in Grenada;

- Identify, register and launch the first pilot ICH inventorying list for Grenada, Carriacou and Petite Martinique;

- Build up a conscience of schoolteachers and students of 5th and 6th grades through the implementation of the Proud of my Heritage Education Programme by using the ICH Resource Guide, materials, site-excursions, photography and video, and participatory crosscutting lessons/activities for ICH knowledge transfer about Grenada's ICH in seven schools. The participating children are learning, recognizing and becoming the next generation of pro-heritage bearers as they are aware, promote and safeguard their living heritage;

- Raise the awareness of general public through Proud of my Heritage Media Campaign. This includes launching the ICH inventorying/list at GNT website; creation of a Platform for Grenada's heritage affairs, ads, news and interviews; media releases as TV/Radio programs, press release, social media, ICH showcase and information booth, and ICH photo contest.
